

Privacy Notice

This notice is addressed to potential claimants and their legal advisors with whom we may interact for the purposes of providing litigation funding and any others whose personal data we may use. Most of the personal data we process will be obtained directly from you, but we may also acquire personal data about you (and others) from other parties connected with you or your matter. We also obtain data from publicly available sources.

How we use your personal data

We will only use your personal data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we will use your personal data in the following circumstances:

- to enable us to ascertain whether we may provide litigation funding to support your claim; or
- to enable us to fulfil our contractual and other legal obligations in connection with any litigation funding contracts put in place to fund your claim and where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third party) in the operation of our business; or
- where you have given us your express consent for use of your data in connection with a particular purpose (for example, background checks); or
- where we have received such data from a third party, and our use of such data is necessary in order for us properly to perform our professional role in any transaction.

We process your information lawfully, in reliance on contractual grounds (to perform our contractual obligations with respect to a contract you may have or may be considering with us) or on grounds of legitimate interest (which may include to enable us to provide funding, for operational purposes and for the maintenance of internal records).

Please contact us if you need details about the specific legal ground we are relying on to process your personal data.

Third parties

Please note that our work may require us to pass on such information to third parties such as insurers. We do not normally copy such information to anyone outside the European Economic Area, however we may do so when the particular circumstances of your matter so require and we will ensure that we follow appropriate procedures in so doing. We would expect all third parties in receipt of such information from us to maintain confidentiality in relation to your information.

You have a right of access under data protection law to the personal data that we hold about you. We seek to keep that personal data correct and up to date. You should let us know if you believe the information we hold about you needs to be corrected or updated.

We have appointed our General Counsel, Michael Hartridge as our representative for the purposes of the Data Protection Act: mhartridge@aristata.co.uk

You consent to us retaining such data for longer than the five year statutory period unless you tell us otherwise.

Data security

We have put in place appropriate security measures to prevent your personal information from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way, altered or disclosed. In addition, we limit access to your personal information to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a business need-to-know. They will only process your personal information on our instructions and they are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected data security breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected breach where we are legally required to do so.

Data protection – your obligations

If you send us personal data about anyone other than yourself you will ensure you have any appropriate consents and notices in place to enable you to transfer that personal data to us, and so that we may use it for the purposes for which you provide it to us.

Data protection – your rights

Under certain circumstances, by law you have the right to:

- Request access to your personal information.
- Request correction of the personal information that we hold about you..
- Request erasure of your personal information.
- Object to processing of your personal information where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground. You also have the right to object where we are processing your personal information for direct marketing purposes.
- Request the restriction of processing of your personal information.

If you want to review, verify, correct or request erasure of your personal information, object to the processing of your personal data, or request that we transfer a copy of your personal information to another party, please contact Michael Hartridge.

Further, if you have a complaint about the way we are collecting and/or processing your personal information you may write to us at the following address.
